Our import tool is also a great way to keep your campaign always optimized across platforms to get the best results.

Set up a recurring import and ensure your keywords, assets, targeting and more always stay up to date.

Do the work once. It's about efficiency and results.

Save time and scale across platforms

See how one of our clients used Import tool for scale.

British Gas wanted to mirror their optimization efforts across platforms. It was an easy decision to import their Responsive Search Ads (RSAs) with the Google Import tool.

Key benefits of Import tools

TIME SAVINGS

Directly import your campaigns from the other platforms into Microsoft Advertising, reaching more customers with just a few clicks.

FLEXIBILITY & SCALE

Import everything or select specific campaigns. Leverage granular import options to customize bids, budgets, and more during import.

BRAND CONSISTENCY

Texts, images and videos once imported can be used in future ads and extensions across Microsoft Advertising. Easily maintain your brand consistency by maximizing the value of your current resources.

AUTOMATED UPDATES

Schedule imports to occur once, daily, weekly or monthly to ensure all your optimizations are updated across platforms.

Using a third-party management tool?

Many third-party campaign management tools have import options that you can use for Microsoft Advertising.

SKAI

Google import is supported natively in Skai. Seamlessly create and manage imports directly in the Skai platform, or in Microsoft Advertising.

ADOBE

Google import is supported natively in Adobe. Seamlessly create and manage imports directly in the Adobe platform, or in Microsoft Advertising.

MARIN

Offers a specific Google import function that differs from Microsoft Advertising and does not support some features like importing images for Audience ads.

SEARCH ADS 360

No Google Import functionality. You should use the Microsoft Advertising import tools.

Meet Google Import

- Import directly in Microsoft Advertising online.
- Use supported file formats, such as .csv and .xlsx, to import your campaigns.
- Schedule imports to occur once, daily, weekly or monthly, and review the import history.
- Control brand suitability to ensure your brand to not show up in places that do not represent your values.

Transfer at a larger scale than ever

Import 20 million keywords and 20 million ads (a major step up from the previous 9 million combined limit), and bring over new entities, such as audience ads and Remarketing lists (under Audience lists and targets).

The screenshot shows the 'Import from Google Ads' onboarding flow in the Microsoft Advertising interface. The top navigation bar includes the Microsoft logo, 'Advertising', and 'Onboarding Flow' with a dropdown arrow. Below this, the breadcrumb trail shows 'Back to campaigns' and 'Import from Google Ads'. The main heading is 'Import from Google Ads'. The text below states: 'Get your campaigns up and running quickly by importing them directly from Google Ads. Before you start, make sure to understand what will get imported.' It then displays the account information: 'Microsoft Advertising account: Onboarding Flow - F109JE73 Currency: USD'. A 'Sign in to Google' section follows, showing a message: 'You are importing into this Microsoft Advertising account: Onboarding Flow - F109JE73 and you are signed in to this Google account: contoso.bproductads@gmail.com'. There are 'Continue' and 'Sign Out' buttons. Below this, there are sections for 'Choose your Google Ads account', 'Choose Google Ads campaigns and ad groups', 'Choose import options', 'Schedule imports', and 'Import summary', each with a horizontal line indicating a step in the process.

Pre-import best practices

SET UP A TEST ACCOUNT

Create a new test account for import and put it on pause until you're satisfied with the setup.

REVIEW YOUR ACCOUNT

- Play with the import settings until you're satisfied with the results.
- Ensure import entity numbers matches between Google and Microsoft Advertising so you're not missing out on anything.

RUN THE NEW ACCOUNT

- Un pause the campaigns in the new account and let it run in parallel of the original account.
- Best practice is to increase your bid in the new account and lower your bid in the original account.

WARM UP PERIOD

For the first few months, keep your original Microsoft Advertising account running, while the new account warms up, so you don't lose any demand.

READY TO TRANSITION

Once performance of the new account is comparable to original account, you can disable the original account and set up a recurring import for the other one.

Key things to know before you go

Bid & Budgets

Microsoft Advertising has different minimum bid and budget requirements from Google Ads.

To help you import all your data quickly, any bids or daily budgets that are too low will be raised to meet the Microsoft Advertising minimums.

See Bids and budgets in What gets imported.

You can opt out of the daily budget increases but your campaigns that don't meet the minimum daily budgets won't be imported.

You can't opt out of the bid increases.

Review your ad rotation

Make sure your ad rotation is optimized for clicks

Review previous import

Go over previous imports that have run in the last 90 days with details in the Changes box.

Boost desktop bids

Boost your desktop bid for better performance

For quality assurance, please review:

- Language settings
- Location settings, including exclusions for accounts in the U.S.
- Targeting method set to Show ads to people in my targeted location
- Ad schedules at both the account and manager account level.
- Bids for device targeting, with any manual adjustments updated as needed
- Network Distribution Settings. Include search partners when appropriate

Campaign status overwritten by import

- When you import a campaign and then change its status from active to paused, a later scheduled import could potentially override this status change, which may result in the campaign being reactivated. The same situation occurs if you change a paused campaign back to active.
- Our platform includes an alert message to notify you of these status changes, ensuring you are aware that a subsequent scheduled import might override your modifications.

☐	▾	Demand Gen with lifetime budget		0.05/day		-	Hold	Audience	-
☐		displayimagerdatest		1.00/day		-	Hold	Audience	-

You've paused a campaign that may be unpaused when your next scheduled import runs. To keep this campaign paused even after import, go to your Import schedule and de-select Campaigns under Customize status.

Quick fix recommendations for import issues

See a list of import issues and how to quickly fix them on the Microsoft Advertising platform.

- Resolve import issues quickly for time-saving and smoother campaign setup
- Maintain campaign performance and consistency across platforms
- Ultimately, enhance overall advertising effectiveness

Importing your Demand Gen campaigns from Google Display Network (GDN)

Directly import the display campaigns, including images, you're running on GDN to Microsoft Advertising.

Google Import already exists for search. What's new about importing Google Display Network campaigns?

Previously, the Google Import tool didn't support import for audience campaigns (also known as display campaigns). Now, you'll be able to directly import the display campaigns, including images, you're running in GDN to your Microsoft Advertising account.

I'm running a feed-based display campaign on Google. Will I be able to import it properly?

Yes. If you haven't already imported your Google feeds to Microsoft Merchant Center, be sure to first import your product offers to Microsoft Merchant Center. Once you have your Microsoft Merchant Center store set up, be sure to select this store under Import Options in the Google Import tool to link it to your feed-based audience campaigns.

What are some key tips when using Google Import for Audience Campaigns?

Here are a few key things to keep in mind when using Google Import for Audience Campaigns:

- Campaign placement exclusions: To import campaign placement exclusions from Google Ads, select Website exclusions in your Advanced Import Options.
- Location targets and bid adjustments: If the Google Ads location can't be mapped, we use the parent location and show a warning during import. If there is no parent location, we'll show an error during import.
- Negative location targets: If the Google Ads location can't be mapped, we'll show an error during import.
- Ad extensions: Ad extensions will be imported to your account's library, but Microsoft Advertising doesn't currently support associating any ad extensions with audience campaigns.

Can I import Demand Gen campaigns from Google?

Yes, you can now import Demand Gen Campaigns with image assets. We do not currently support importing video assets for Demand Gen campaigns. If your Google campaigns use maximize conversions or target CPA bid strategy in Google, and your Microsoft account has a conversion goal, your campaigns will be imported with that same bid strategy. If your Microsoft account does not have a conversion goal, campaigns will be imported with enhanced CPC.

UET Tag mapping

IMPORTANT!

Remember, if you're importing any Remarketing list,* audience or conversion goal that hasn't previously been imported into Microsoft Advertising, you need to do the one-time manual step of associating your UET tag.

For more information on the importing audiences, see the Audience import solution guide.

UET tag

- ☒ Associate the following UET tag with any remarketing list, audience, or conversion goal that has not previously imported into Microsoft Advertising.

Contoso UET Tag

*Google Import for Remarketing and Custom Combination Lists is in pilot. Currently, the pilot only supports importing Remarketing and Custom Combination lists for single-account imports, but multi-account support for the pilot is coming soon.

5. Customize settings in detail

- If Do not update existing campaign names is selected, we won't alter existing Google Ads names, but settings and sub-items linked to them will still be updated. This is the recommended option for recurring imports.
- Pause newly imported campaigns may be a good option if you like to review your campaigns before they go live.
- When importing your new campaigns, only active campaigns are imported. Checking Include paused campaigns when importing new items will ensure your paused campaigns are also imported
- If we cannot detect the bid from an import, we will set the target bid to the minimum recommended value for your market. If you do not want this to happen, you can unselect Increase keyword, ad group, and auto target bids to the recommended value. When unselected, your bid will be set to the minimum possible bid instead and you are unlikely to see impressions until you manually change the bid.

6. Schedule your import

- Schedule import helps you get time back by saving your specific settings and ensure campaigns are always optimized for best performance.
- We recommend to leave scheduled import frequency setting as “auto”.
- But if you want more control, you can set a specific frequency (daily, weekly or monthly imports)
- Give your import a name and decide how you want to be notified of the import and any possible changes/errors.
- When you’re importing, you’ll see the seven steps being taken to bring over your campaigns.

Why import a merchant center store

Create a store in Microsoft Merchant Center (MMC) by easily importing your Google Merchant Center (GMC) store.

Save your time by skipping the process of verifying a domain, creating a feed, and uploading products which you've already completed with Google Ads.

After selecting your store, you should update your store name and add a description

Just like before, you can add contact details, including your Google email

Things to know

Maximum number of stores

Merchants will be limited to the first 1,000 stores we are able to retrieve from Google Merchant Center.

- Agencies and customers with access to more than 1,000 stores may still create a store manually
- The search functionality can help merchants easily find their desired store, but will only search across those 1,000 stores we retrieve from Google Merchant Center

Domain verification

- The store domain must be verified and claimed in Google Merchant Center to successfully create a store in Microsoft Merchant Center

FAQs

Can I still create a store manually?	Yes! Merchants always have the option to create a store manually rather than importing from Google Merchant Center. Click “Create your store manually” and follow the in-platform instructions to finish your store creation.
Can I import a store multiple times?	No, a domain may only be used one time when creating a store in Microsoft Merchant Center. Please contact ad support for additional details.
How do I see what products I’m importing?	You can visit the Feeds page in Microsoft Merchant Center to identify the feeds being imported. You can also visit the Imports page to edit your scheduled product import.
When will I see more than 1,000 stores?	We are planning revisit our limitations and address our larger advertisers’ and agencies’ needs next year.

Meta Import

Feature Guide

Meet Meta Import

- Import directly in Microsoft Advertising online.
- Schedule imports to occur once, daily, weekly or monthly, and review the import history.

Transfer at a larger scale than ever

Import up to 10,000 campaigns and ad groups per account from Meta Ads. Leverage granular import options to customize bids, budgets, and more during import.

The screenshot shows the Microsoft Advertising interface. The top navigation bar includes 'Microsoft Advertising', 'AutobiddingUser', 'Account C0355LXG', and a search bar. A red banner at the top states: 'You need a primary payment method before your ads will run. Add a payment method now'. The left sidebar contains a menu with 'All campaigns', 'Overview', 'Recommendations', 'Campaigns' (selected), 'Ad groups', 'Ads & extensions', 'Landing pages', 'Keywords', 'Dynamic ad targets', 'Audiences', 'Demographics', 'Settings', 'Locations', 'Ad schedule', 'Devices', 'Change history', 'Competition', and 'Experiments'. The main content area shows the 'Campaigns' tab with a graph area displaying 'No data available. To update the graph, select a different date range. If the graph remains blank, your account might have no data.' Below the graph is a table of campaigns.

	Campaign	Campaign type	Phone calls	Phone impr.	PTR	Bid strategy type	Budget	Delivery

Meta import availability

	STATUS	MARKETS	ENTRY POINTS	DEVICE	NETWORK TRAFFIC
META ADS	Generally available	All Audience ads markets	Microsoft Advertising online	All devices	Audience ads

Features available for import

Features and functionality	Description
Campaign name	• Microsoft Advertising campaign can contain up to 128 characters while Meta ads campaign names can be longer. If the campaign name is longer than 128 characters, we will truncate the name and follow the below naming pattern. • Every Meta ads Campaign name will be imported as "Facebook Campaign Name + Delimiter (hyphen) + FB + Facebook Campaign Id". For example, if the original campaign name is "Subscribe and Save. Buy X, Get Y at 20% discount" and campaign id is 2345678910. Then this campaign name once imported will be saved as "Subscribe and Save. Buy X, Get Y - FB2345678910".
Ad group name	• Ad group name will follow the exact same pattern as campaign name. Ad-set name followed by delimiter followed by Facebook ad set ID.
Ad name	• Although Meta has ad names, Microsoft Advertising doesn't so import will ignore Meta's ad names.

Features available for import

Features and functionality	Description
Budgets	• Meta ads supports budgets at the campaign and ad group level, as well as daily and lifetime budgets. • Microsoft Advertising only supports campaign level budgets and lifetime budgets are not supported. • If a campaign level daily budget is used on FB, it will be Imported as-is (i.e. 1:1). • FB lifetime budgets allow start / end dates at the ad group level, but not at the campaign level. If a campaign uses a lifetime budget but has no ad groups with start / end dates, the lifetime budget will be converted to a default daily budget of $100/day. If ≥ 1 ad groups have start / end dates, we convert the ad group lifetime budgets to daily budgets (prorated to # days), then pick the largest one to be used as the overall campaign daily budget. • Campaigns won't be imported if budget remaining is zero.
Schedule	• If the Meta ads campaigns have a start time and end time, Microsoft Advertising will import them. • If the end time is in the past, we'll still import but as a paused campaign. • If the start time is in the past, we'll import with the campaign start date as today.
Bids and bidding strategy	• Meta ads supports several auto bidding strategies like lowest cost without cap, lowest cost with bid cap, target cost, cost cap etc. • Microsoft Advertising doesn't yet support auto bidding for audience campaigns, so our import will set up campaigns with manual bidding. • Bid amounts are imported as-is when available. If bid is not available (i.e. lowest cost without bid cap), a default bid of $1 will be used.
Feeds	• We do not support dynamic remarketing and feed import at this time.

Features available for import

Features and functionality	Description
Location targeting	• We can import campaigns with the following targeting locations: US, CA, UK, AU, NZ • Campaigns with other targeting locations that are not supported with Audience ads will be imported as paused. Please note: Microsoft and Meta ads do not have exact location targeting parity.
Ad group name	• Meta ads uses min and max age while Microsoft Advertising has predefined ranges • Import will use the Meta ads age range and map to the MSA ranges. For example, if the min is selected as 18 and max is selected as 40 in Meta ads, import will target age ranges 18-24, 25-34, 35-49 in Microsoft Advertising.
Ad name	• Gender will be mapped correspondingly as male and female. If 'All' is selected in Meta ads, the import will map to both male and female in Microsoft Advertising.
New Audience lists and associations	• Website Custom audiences will be mapped to remarketing lists. Detailed targeting lists will be mapped to In-market audiences. Lookalike audiences will be mapped to Similar audiences. Custom audiences which are of type app activity, customer list, and engagement are not imported.
Images	• We can import campaigns with single image format ads. Other formats like Carousel and Collection aren't supported at this time. • Images with text overlays are more likely to be rejected by our editorial system.
Videos	• All videos ads are eligible for import. The video itself is not imported. If we are able to import both video and image ads, we will.
Emojis	• Emojis will be removed from ads during Import, as emojis are not allowed within Microsoft ads.

Meta Import

Quick Import Guide

How it works?

1. Choose your import method

- Select Quick Setup if you want Microsoft Advertising to handle your import for you or Customize if you want more control.
- Quick Setup creates a scheduled import with default settings once the user signs into Meta. Customize will trigger Smart Import, covered in greater detail later.

How would you like to run your import?

Choose between these options for how your import will run and then sign in to Meta.

Features available for import

Features and functionality	Description
Ad group name	• We will modify your Pinterest Ads ad group name to "{Pinterest Ads ad group name} + delimiter (hyphen) + PI + {Pinterest Ads ad group ID}". • For example, if the original ad group name is "Subscribe and Save. Buy X, Get Y at 20% discount" and ad group ID is 2345678910, then the imported ad group name would be saved in Microsoft Advertising as "Subscribe and Save. Buy X, Get Y - PI2345678910".
Ads	• We will import single image ads as audience ads. • Microsoft Advertising doesn't support import of video and multi-image formats from Pinterest.
Budgets	• If available, daily budgets will transfer as is at the campaign level. • If your Pinterest Ads lifetime budget uses start and stop dates, we'll calculate the daily budget with a proration to the number of days. Campaigns won't be imported if the remaining budget is zero.

Audience import

Features and functionality	Description
Schedule	• If the Pinterest Ads campaigns have a start time and end time, Microsoft Advertising will import them. If the end time is in the past, the campaigns will be imported as paused. If the start time is in the past, the start date will be set to the import date.
Bids and bid strategy	• We will import Pinterest Ads campaigns with enhanced CPC bid strategy. • Bid amounts are imported when available. If a bid isn't available, a default bid of $1 will be set.
Location targeting	• We will import locations from Pinterest Ads that are also supported in Microsoft Advertising. If none of the imported location targets are supported by Microsoft Advertising, the campaign or ad group will be paused.
Demographics	• We will import age and gender targets from Pinterest.
Audiences	• Audiences will be imported from Pinterest Ads when possible.

Smart Import Guide

Initiate Import

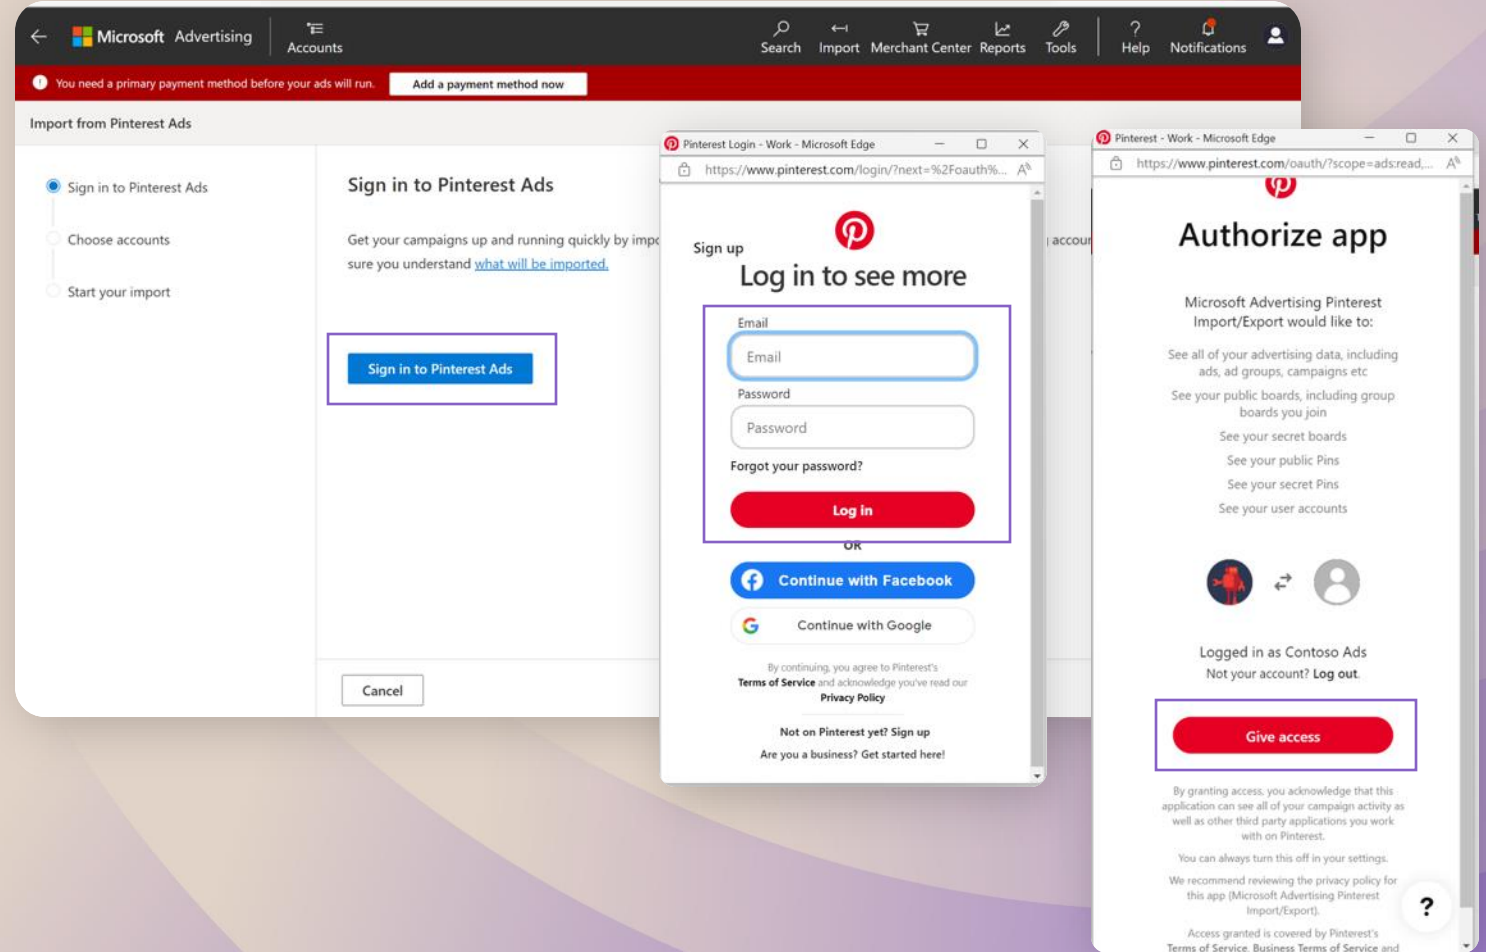

- Initiate Pinterest Import using the Import menu.

The screenshot displays the Microsoft Advertising dashboard. The top navigation bar includes 'Microsoft Advertising', 'Accounts', 'Search', 'Import', 'Merchant Center', 'Reports', 'Tools', 'Help', and 'Notifications'. A red banner at the top states: 'None of your ads are running, because you have paused your campaigns. You need to enable your campaigns.' The left sidebar lists various campaign management options: Overview, Recommendations, Campaigns, Ad groups, Ads & extensions, Landing pages, Keywords, Dynamic ad targets, Audiences, Demographics, Settings, Locations, Ad schedule, Devices, Change history, Competition, and Experiments. The main content area is titled 'Overview' and features a 'Performance' section with a line graph showing metrics like Spend ($8.02), Clicks (15), Conv. (0.00), and Impr. (2,246) over time. Below the graph is a 'Campaigns' table with columns for Campaign, Spend, Clicks, and Impr. The 'Import' menu is open, showing options: 'Import from Google Ads', 'Import from Facebook Ads', 'Import from Pinterest Ads' (highlighted with a red circle and a 'New' badge), 'Import from file', and 'Import schedule & history'. A 'Recommendations' section on the right suggests importing from Google Ads to save time and effort, with a 'View recommendation' button. The bottom right shows 'Top changes: Campaigns' with a table of changes.

The screenshot shows the 'Import from Pinterest Ads' workflow in the Microsoft Advertising interface. The top navigation bar includes 'Microsoft Advertising' and 'Accounts'. A red banner at the top states: 'None of your ads are running, because you have paused your campaigns. You need to enable your campaigns.' The left sidebar shows three steps: 'Sign in to Pinterest Ads' (completed), 'Choose accounts' (current step), and 'Start your import'. The main area is titled 'Choose accounts' and instructs the user to 'Select up to 1 Pinterest Ads accounts that you want to import data from.' Below this is a search bar and a table with the following data:

Pinterest Ads account name	Pinterest Ads account ID	Pinterest Ads currency
Contoso	549764475404	USD

To the right of the table is a 'Selected:' section showing 'Contoso' with a 'Remove' link. At the bottom are 'Back', 'Next', and 'Cancel' buttons.

Important points to note

IMPORTANT!

- While Pinterest Ads import is available globally, we will only import Microsoft Audience Campaigns where they are available.
- Pinterest Ads campaigns will be imported to Microsoft Advertising as audience campaigns.
- We will import Active, Paused, and Archived Pinterest Ads campaigns.
- If the currencies you set for your Pinterest Ads and Microsoft Advertising account don't match, you'll see an option to either convert your currency data to match Microsoft Advertising or opt out of currency data conversion. If you choose to opt out, you can manually adjust your bids and budgets using the import options after your import is complete. Select Convert to convert the currency data to match Microsoft Advertising or select Ignore to opt out of currency conversion.

Baidu Import

Feature Guide

Meet Baidu Import

- Import directly in Microsoft Advertising online.
- Only zip files in CSV format are allowed to import your advertising campaigns.
- Baidu's search ads can be imported as Responsive Search Ads on Microsoft Advertising.

The screenshot shows the 'Import Campaigns' interface in Microsoft Advertising. At the top, it displays the account name 'automationtestuser' and currency 'USD'. Below this, there's a section 'Select a file to upload' with a text input field containing 'baiduads_2023-11-15.zip' and a 'Browse...' button. Underneath, three radio buttons are visible: 'Microsoft Advertising format', 'Google Ads format', and 'Baidu format', with the latter being selected. A note indicates supported file formats (.csv, .tsv, .xlsx, .zip) and provides a link to 'Download the import template'. At the bottom of this section are 'Continue' and 'Cancel' buttons. The interface is divided into sections by horizontal lines, with the following labels visible: 'Import Campaigns', 'Microsoft Advertising account: automationtestuser - H2008H1J Currency: USD', 'Select a file to upload', 'Review column matching', 'Choose import options', and 'Import summary'.

What is imported

Type	Imported Fields	Important to know
Account	- Negative Keywords - Location targets - Ad schedules - Device targets - Share budget	- Negative words are divided into two modes: Exact match and Phrase match - Baidu supports a wider range of regions than Microsoft already supports in China
Campaign	- Name - Bid - Daily Budget - Bid Strategy Type - Status	- Only supports importing as search campaign with Enhanced CPC bid strategy - Baidu's 'unlimited' budget amount will be imported as the maximum daily budget supported by MSA. - By default, newly imported ads will be set to a 'paused' status. - Campaigns with the same name will be treated as the same campaign, and existing settings will be updated during the import process.
AdGroup	- Name - Status - Bid	Ad Groups with the same name will be treated as the same Ad Group, and existing settings will be updated during the import process.
Ad	- Headline - Description - Final URL - Status	- Baidu Ads only contain one title and up to two descriptions, while Microsoft's RSA requires 3 to 15 titles and 2 to 4 descriptions. Therefore, we group Baidu Ads based on the AdGroup and the Final URL. Each group of Baidu Ads will be merged into one RSA. - We split ad titles based on common separators such as ',' '-' and '.'. If the total number of titles in a group of ads does not meet the minimum number required for RSA, we will attempt to fill in '!' as supplementary titles for import. If it still does not meet the requirements, the group of ads will fail to import. - If a group of ads contains more than 15 titles or 4 descriptions, the excess titles or descriptions will be discarded. - Since each ad group only supports up to 3 RSAs, those groups that exceed the limit will be discarded during the import process.
Keyword	- Keyword - Status - Bid - Match Type - Final URL	The Match Type supports Phrase Match, Exact Match, and Broad Match.

Audience targeting overview: Keys to success

CHECK OUT THE MENU OF TARGETING OPTIONS

Before you get started with targeting, make sure you understand all the options available to help you narrow your audience –and find the customers who are looking for you!

DECIDE ON EITHER “TARGET AND BID” OR “BID ONLY” – AND DON’T FORGET TO BID BOOST

Target and bid lets you control who you show your ad to. It allows you to show your ad to one audience, but not another audience. Bid only lets you to increase your bid on a particular audience but isn’t a targeting mechanism.

CHOOSE AUDIENCE TARGETING FEATURES TO START WITH

There are multiple audience targeting features to choose from. You can find a full list in our Audience Targeting Playbook. We recommend starting with Remarketing and In-market Audiences.

BE THOUGHTFUL AND SPECIFIC WITH YOUR TARGETING

Make sure you have narrow enough targeting that your ad will be relevant, but keep in mind, if it’s too narrow, you may eliminate potential clicks. The more targeting dimensions you apply, the smaller your reach may be.

SET UP A SEPARATE CAMPAIGN FOR EACH TARGETING TYPE

Having different campaigns for each audience targeting type you’re using can help you test and optimize more easily.

COMBINE DIMENSIONS AND LEARN ABOUT “AND” VERSUS “OR” FUNCTIONALITY

You can use “and”/ “or” expressions to further target your audience and find the customers you’re searching for.

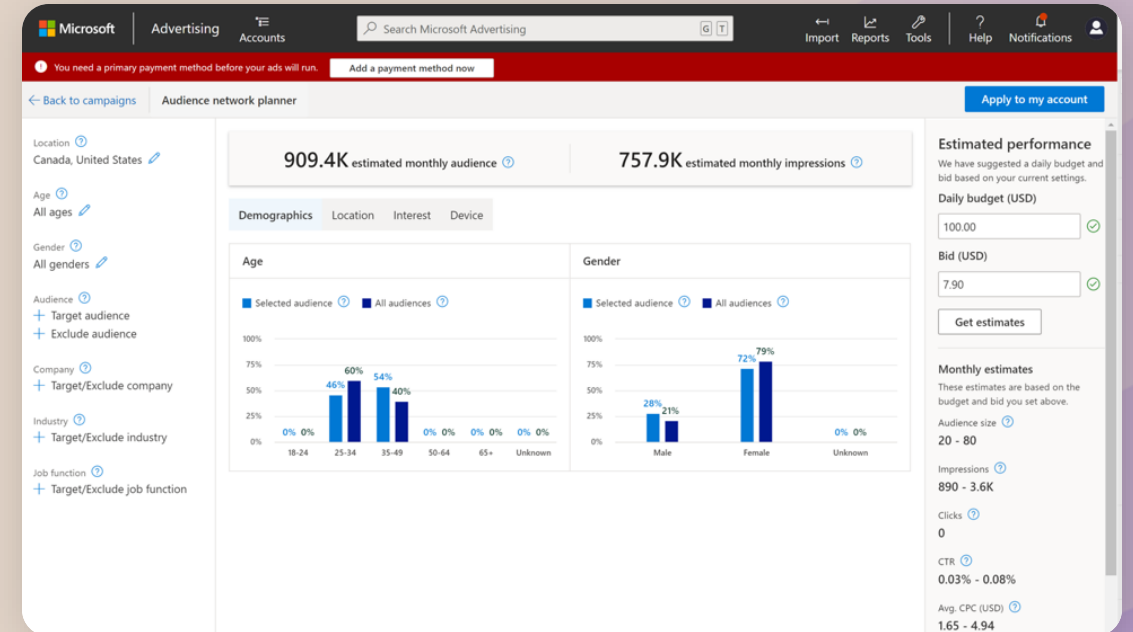

Assess opportunities with the Audience Network Planner

Get a better understanding of your audience while planning your campaigns with Audience ads.

The Audience Network Planner works by providing insight from the following categories:

- Audience targeting
- Reach estimation
- Audience composition
- Budget & Bid suggestion*
- Campaign performance estimation*
- Campaign creation*
- Persona management*

To learn more or for steps to get started, visit Microsoft Advertising Help.

*Available for Microsoft Audience Ads for separate audience campaigns, they aren't available for Microsoft Audience Ads for search campaigns.

Review our image guidelines

Getting started with image ads

- To get started, you need one wide (rectangle) image, sized at 1200×628 pixels.
- Use high-quality image files.
- There's no maximum file size or dimensions for images used with responsive ads (for Microsoft Audience Ads for audience campaigns; doesn't apply to Image Extensions for search campaigns).
- Before you upload your images, make sure they meet the following requirements:
 - View the image, audio and video guidelines.
 - Confirm the image specs and requirements.

Test your images

- Make sure you use high-resolution JPG or PNG images so they don't pixelate or degrade across screens.
- Before launching, ensure images and text look as expected in all ad preview formats using the preview tool in your account.

Microsoft Audience Network Wide Image

This is an example of how your ad could appear on other websites in the Microsoft Audience Network. The final ad format is likely to change to match the look and feel of the website.

There are examples of how your audience ads could appear. Depending on placement, the actual ad shown may appear differently -- for example, some text may be shortened.
